

Change

Gradual or Immediate?

Is it better for change to occur gradually or immediately?

Event	Gradual	Immediate
Women are being refused the opportunity to vote.
Jews are being rounded up into concentrations camps.
Congolese are begin forced into work camps and dying of starvation.
Aboriginal groups are not getting access to clean drinking water.
Government is temporarily restricting the rights of its citizens.
There is evidence of police violating the rights of minority groups.
Illegal drug use is rising rapidly.
Large groups of immigrants are illegally entering the country.

What are some examples of gradual methods of creating change?

What are some examples of immediate methods of creating change?

What are some potential consequences of gradual change?

What are some potential consequences of immediate change?

During the American Civil War those with the power to make decisions didn't have the ability to choose if the slavery question would be answered gradually or immediately. Did Abraham Lincoln make the right decision when he refused to allow the southern states to succeed?

Are there current issues in Canada, that if they are resolved, may be forced upon us?